Community Partnership

By Community Engagement

Dear IRC Community, as Helen Keller once said, "Alone we can do so little; together, we can do so much." At IRC, we understand the power of collaboration and the importance of community partnerships in achieving our mission.

In this edition of our March newsletter, we're thrilled to spotlight the significance of community partnerships. We'll be showcasing our valued collaboration with organizations like "OPTIONS FOR ALL," highlighting our engaging parent crafts & chat workshops where valuable information and resources are shared with our IRC parents on a monthly basis. In our featured blog post, we'll delve into the impactful work of "OPTIONS FOR ALL" as we prepare for our upcoming Service Access Equity Conference. Our IRC clients are actively involved in developing marketing materials, including reminder videos for the conference, showcasing their dedication and talent. Additionally, we'll celebrate the generosity of the "Knights of Columbus | Catholic Fraternal Organization," who recently supported IRC through a successful fundraiser and donation.

As we look ahead to 2024, we aim to strengthen our existing partnerships, forge new connections, and continue serving and supporting our IRC community alongside our dedicated partners. If you're interested in exploring partnership opportunities with IRC, please don't hesitate to contact us at community@inlandrc.org.

Thank you for your ongoing support and commitment to our shared mission of empowerment and inclusivity.

Inland Regional Center is thrilled to showcase our meaningful partnership with "OPTIONS FOR ALL" in this month's newsletter for March. "OPTIONS FOR ALL" (OFA) stands as a beacon of support and opportunity for adults with intellectual and/or developmental disabilities (I/DD) across California. Since its inception, "OPTIONS FOR ALL" has positively impacted over 1,500 consumers throughout California, including the vibrant community of San Bernardino. At Inland Regional Center, we deeply value collaboration and the power of partnerships in creating meaningful change. As we gear up for our highly anticipated Service Access and Equity Conference (SAE), we are honored to join forces with the San Bernardino office of "OPTIONS FOR ALL".

Crafts & Chats Workshop 2024: Engaging Families in Interactive Learning

By Amalia Barcelo-Huizar

Join us for our monthly Crafts & Chats workshops at Inland Regional Center, where IRC families gather on the third Tuesday of each month to engage in meaningful discussions and creative activities. These workshops provide a supportive environment for families to learn about helpful resources while participating in hands-on crafting projects.

In the first half of the year, our focus is on creating a homeschool task box, covering various subjects such as English, Geography, Math, and more. Additionally, we'll delve into essential life skills like Coping Skills, Breathing Exercises, and Emergency Preparedness. Each workshop is designed to be both educational and enjoyable, with activities tailored to engage both parents and children.

During our February workshop, we had fun creating an English Phonics envelope with a Rhyming Memory Match Game. In March, our attention will shift to Math Skills, followed by an Emergency Preparedness workshop in April where we'll be making Emergency ID cards.

These workshops offer parents an opportunity to connect and support one another in a casual setting. Families of consumers of all ages are welcome to attend, and parents are encouraged to bring their kids along.

Our goal is to inspire parents to create their own fun learning activities at home. From expression face guessing games to hashtag pattern games, the possibilities are endless. Parents can also design task envelopes focusing on various educational topics like math concepts, Inland Empire landmarks, household vocabulary, and more.

We look forward to seeing you at our upcoming workshops!

Ensuring Earthquake Safety and Support for People with Disabilities

By Community Engagement

Earthquakes are unpredictable natural disasters that can have devastating consequences. While everyone should be prepared for earthquakes, it's crucial to consider the specific needs and challenges faced by individuals with disabilities. This blog will explore earthquake readiness for people with disabilities and provide valuable tips on ensuring their safety and support during seismic events.

Understanding Unique Challenges: People with disabilities encounter distinctive challenges when it comes to earthquake preparedness:

1. Mobility Impairments: Individuals with mobility impairments may find it challenging to move quickly to a safe location or take shelter during an earthquake.
2. Sensory Impairments: Deaf or blind individuals may require alternative communication and notification methods during seismic events.
3. Cognitive Impairments: People with cognitive impairments may struggle to comprehend emergency instructions or respond effectively during a crisis.
4. Medical Needs: Individuals with medical conditions or those reliant on life-sustaining equipment may need specialized attention and resources during earthquakes.
5. Communication Barriers: Effective communication during an emergency is vital, but individuals with a disability may face barriers hindering their ability to convey their needs or receive assistance.

Preparing for Earthquakes: To ensure the safety and well-being of people with disabilities during earthquakes, it's essential to plan meticulously. Here are key steps to consider:

- Develop a Personalized Emergency Plan:

- Identify specific needs: Understand the unique requirements of the individual, including mobility aids, assistive devices, medications, and communication preferences.
- Establish a support network: Create a circle of trusted friends, family members, or caregivers who can provide assistance during emergencies.
- Create a communication plan: Ensure that the individual with a disability can effectively communicate their needs, especially if they have speech or hearing impairments.

- Assemble an Emergency Kit:

- Customize the emergency kit: Include essential items like medications, medical supplies, mobility aids, hearing aids, communication devices, and spare batteries.
- Maintain a written list (do not count on having the use of a smartphone) of essential contacts: Include contact information for healthcare providers, caregivers, Regional Center Service Coordinator and support networks in the emergency kit.

- Secure the Living Environment:

- Identify safe locations: Determine the safest spots within the home or workplace where a person with a disability can seek shelter during an earthquake.
- Secure heavy objects: Use anchors to prevent heavy furniture and objects from falling during tremors.

EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS

MAKE A PLAN

BUILD A KIT

BE INFORMED

- Practice Evacuation Plans:

- Conduct drills: Regularly practice evacuation routes and procedures with the individual with a disability and their support network.
- Assess transportation options: Ensure accessible transportation is available for evacuation if required.

- Stay Informed:

- Subscribe to emergency alerts: Register for local emergency notification systems to receive real-time updates and alerts.
- Stay informed about news and weather updates, including earthquake forecasts and developments in your region.

- Utilize Community Resources:

- Connect with local disability organizations: These organizations often provide resources, support, and guidance for earthquake preparedness.
- Explore government assistance programs: Investigate programs that may offer financial aid or equipment to an individual with a disability during emergencies.

Preparing for earthquakes when you have a disability requires careful planning, effective communication, and a strong support network. By taking proactive measures to address the unique challenges faced by individuals with disabilities, we can ensure their safety and well-being in the event of an earthquake. Remember that preparedness is the key to resilience, and by working together, we can create a safer environment for all members of our community.

It's not a matter of if but when. Stay safe.

LISTOS CALIFORNIA EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS TIPS

STAY SAFE IN EARTHQUAKES

Preparing for earthquakes and knowing what to do after one happens can save lives.
Stay safe by being earthquake ready.

Before an Earthquake

- Practice DROP, COVER, and HOLD ON at home and work.
- Get life-saving seconds to stay safe before shaking starts by downloading and setting up alerts from California's Earthquake Early Warning system at earthquake.ca.gov.
- Secure loose and tall furniture to minimize damage or threat of injury.
- Have a Go Bag and shoes in a place that you can find quickly if you have to evacuate.

Protect Yourself During Earthquakes

- If inside, do not rush outside or stand in a doorway. Never use elevators! Remember, DROP, COVER, and HOLD ON.
- If in bed, stay there and COVER your head with a pillow.
- If outdoors, move away from anything that can fall, especially power lines, trees, street lights, and buildings.
- If driving, pull over and set the parking brake. Make sure you stop away from trees, bridges, buildings, or power lines.

Stay Alert After Earthquakes

- Be ready for aftershocks over several days or weeks. Whenever you feel shaking, DROP, COVER, and HOLD ON.
- Listen to local radio and TV programs for reliable emergency information and watch out for official emergency alerts.
- If near the coast, evacuate as soon as the shaking stops. Earthquakes can lead to tsunamis, and you should not return until there is an all clear announcement.
- Check for hazards around you, including gas leaks, downed power lines, ruptured pipes, and more. If you smell gas, evacuate everyone immediately.
- Do not enter damaged buildings! Wait until officials say it is safe, even if that means waiting at a shelter. Call your local or county authorities to find exit routes to the nearest shelter.

The Power of Communicating with Inland Regional Center

By Community Engagement

The Inland Regional Center (IRC) is a crucial asset that offers essential services and assistance to individuals with developmental disabilities and their families residing in San Bernardino and Riverside Counties. Although IRC's primary objective revolves around conducting assessments, ascertaining eligibility for services, and delivering case management support, it is paramount to recognize communication's significant role in connecting IRC with its clients, families, and the broader community. In this blog post, we will delve into the profound effects of effective communication within IRC, highlighting its impact on individuals' lives and its role in promoting inclusivity, comprehension, and collaboration.

Empowering Individuals and Families

IRC effectively utilizes various avenues of communication to empower individuals with developmental disabilities and their families. Through platforms such as social media, quarterly newsletters, our comprehensive website at inlandrc.org, the "Contact Us" feature, or our dedicated Community Engagement email at community@inlandrc.org, we establish and maintain open lines of communication. This commitment ensures that clients and their loved ones remain well-informed about the array of services, resources, and opportunities available to them.

By proactively engaging through these channels, IRC cultivates a sense of agency and autonomy among individuals with developmental disabilities. This empowerment enables them to make informed choices about their lives and futures, fostering self-determination and independence.

Also, throughout the year, IRC conducts listening sessions that empower clients and caregivers to communicate directly with our staff on a wide range of important issues. These discussions cover topics such as National Core Indicators (NCI) survey results, Purchase of Services (POS) Reports, Performance Contracts, numerous surveys, and Case Load Ratio to name a few. These listening sessions serve as a vital platform for open dialogue, ensuring that concerns, feedback, and insights from our Clients and their caregivers are heard and addressed effectively.

Furthermore, the avenues mentioned above for providing equitable feedback can help IRC tailor its services within the Lanterman Act framework to meet the community's unique needs and preferences. IRC can catalyze positive change within the Regional Center System of Care by actively listening to concerns, ideas, and aspirations.

When Clients and families feel that their voices are heard and valued, they are more likely to engage with IRC and actively participate in their own care plans. This collaborative approach leads to better outcomes and fosters a sense of partnership in the journey toward independence and self-determination.

Building Trust and Collaboration

Trust forms the bedrock of any successful relationship, and this principle extends to the bond between IRC and its Clients. Effective communication serves as the cornerstone for building trust, showcasing attributes like transparency, dependability, and an unwavering commitment to the well-being of individuals with developmental disabilities and their families. An essential component of this endeavor can be found on the "Accountability" page featured on inlandrc.org.

At IRC, we steadfastly uphold the highest standards of integrity and transparency while delivering services to our valued Clients. This interactive dashboard has been meticulously crafted in accordance with our Transparency and Access to Public Information Policy. Our overarching objective is to provide a platform that connects our Clients, their families, and the broader community with valuable insights into IRC's operational processes and financial management, all while addressing the diverse needs of our population.

The “Accountability” page serves as a gateway, offering information about how IRC conducts its operations and manages funds. It provides a comprehensive overview of our commitment to accountability and fiscal responsibility. Additionally, visitors to the page can access information about agencies that oversee IRC and advocate on behalf of our cherished Clients. This holistic approach to transparency strengthens our relationship with the community and reinforces our dedication to serving the best interests of those we support.

Fostering Inclusivity and Advocacy

Effective communication also plays a pivotal role in fostering inclusivity and advocacy within the community. By regularly engaging with the community, IRC can raise awareness about the challenges faced by individuals with developmental disabilities and promote acceptance and understanding. The Community Engagement Team participates in many events throughout the year, fostering open communication with the individuals we serve.

Moreover, when IRC communicates with local authorities, policymakers, and advocacy groups, it can effectively advocate for the rights and needs of its clients and their families. Through a collective voice, they can drive positive change in policies and practices that impact the lives of those with developmental disabilities.

Annually, IRC actively engages in Grassroots Day held in Sacramento, an event sponsored by the Association of Regional Center Agencies (ARCA). IRC assembles a diverse team for this occasion, including senior staff, managers, Client Advocates, Vendor representatives, a parent of an IRC Client, and the Client themselves. Grassroots Day offers an invaluable platform for Regional Center representatives to engage in productive dialogues with state senators and assembly members. During these discussions, the focus revolves around identifying and addressing challenges and concerns pertaining to the provision of regional center services.

Resolving Challenges and Providing Support

In life's journey, challenges are an inevitable part, and individuals with developmental disabilities and their families often encounter unique hurdles. Maintaining effective communication with IRC becomes a vital lifeline during these times. Whether you are seeking guidance, seeking clarification, or addressing concerns, Clients and their families can rely on IRC as a responsive and supportive resource.

To receive timely assistance, Clients and their families can connect with IRC via email using the "Contact Us" option on inlandrc.org or by sending their inquiries to community@inlandrc.org, especially when facing difficulties in establishing contact with their designated Service Coordinator. Rest assured, we aim to respond to these emails within 3 business days. To expedite the process, we encourage everyone using inlandrc.org to ensure their email details are entered correctly and that they have included the client's name, date of birth, and contact phone number.

In cases of urgency, the Manager of Community Engagement will ensure a swift response. Clients requiring assistance beyond regular hours and during weekends may call 909-890-3000 and follow the prompts to reach the duty program manager.

Conclusion

The power of communication with Inland Regional Center cannot be overstated. It is the linchpin that connects individuals with developmental disabilities, their families, and the community to a network of support, resources, and advocacy. Through open and empathetic communication, IRC empowers, collaborates, advocates, and supports, ultimately enhancing the quality of life for those it serves and contributing to a more inclusive society. In the journey towards empowerment and self-determination, IRC's commitment to communication is a beacon of hope for countless individuals and families.

Winner Winner Pizza Dinner?

By Taniale Sanchez

In October of 2023, the Community Engagement Team organized a Staff Spooktacular event featuring a treat trial and costume contest. The costume contest featured categories such as Most Scary, Most Unique, and Best Unit. Individual winners were presented with spooktacular trophies, while the Best Unit category received a special prize of a CAC-sponsored Pizza Party to be enjoyed at their next unit meeting. Following the event, we had the honor of visiting the Brooke Chambers Unit, where the winning unit was able to enjoy their well-deserved reward.

The CAC representatives not only brought delicious treats but also gave a brief presentation on CAC-run events and Inland Regional Center-wide activities that CSCs can promote to their families. The CAC representatives were enthusiastic about meeting the dedicated CSCs who work with our exceptional IRC families. We encourage you to follow our social media platforms for updates on current and upcoming events in collaboration with IRC. For Regional Center employees, we recommend following us on social media or subscribing to our newsletter for the latest updates.

The Community Engagement team continuously works on new initiatives and looks forward to sharing our efforts with our families and stakeholders. Please take a moment to view photos from previous costume contests and watch for emails regarding the potential 2024 Staff Spooktacular event. We anticipate stiff competition this year and are excited to see the creativity on display.
