

California Department of Developmental Services presents
Person-Centered Practices & Cultural Considerations
Applying Cultural Considerations in Person-Centered Practices

The California Department of Developmental Services, in partnership with Support Development Associates, is offering a series of virtual trainings on person-centered thinking and practices.

These trainings will be held via webinar, will help assure that key stakeholders, including individuals and their families, providers, and regional center staff are knowledgeable of, and understand the principles and application of person-centered thinking, practices and service planning.

Person-Centered Practices & Cultural Considerations

It is important to learn and understand a person's culture and beliefs and how those identities affect planning for services and supports. This training will provide information on applying cultural considerations while using a person-centered approach to planning, including understanding the difference between cultural humility and cultural competence, and identifying key aspects of person-centered cultural humility to provide individualized services and supports.
